

THIS STINKS! INDUSTRIAL ANIMAL AGRICULTURE VICTIMIZES ANIMALS AND THE PLANET

A LIVE ONLINE VSH EVENT
12 NOON HST, SUNDAY, FEB. 12

WITH
JOYCE TISCHLER, JD

In the United States, the meat industry raises and kills 10 billion land animals each year for food. Some people call this "factory farming," but that term is misleading -- this massive industry is nothing like Old McDonald's Farm. Attorney Joyce Tischler teaches law students about the conditions in which these animals are raised, transported and slaughtered, the policies that brought this system into existence and support its continuation, the negative impacts on the animals, the environment, climate change, neighboring communities, workers, food safety and public health, and how to challenge this system in the courts and legislatures. This presentation will provide you with the facts and figures you need to take action against this dirty, destructive industry.

Joyce has devoted her career to advancing the field of animal law. In 1979, she co-founded the first U.S. nonprofit dedicated to protecting animals using the legal system, the Animal Legal Defense Fund (ALDF). She served as the ALDF's executive director for 25 years and then its general counsel until the spring of 2019.
